RIVER AND STEAMBOAT MACTERS.

The river was about at a stand last evening with 5 feet 8 inches water in the canal. The rise from above reached Cincinnati night before last and it will reach here probably to-day.

The Cumberland was falling on Monday with feet water on the shoals.

The Southerner is the regular packet for St. Louis to-morrow.

We are indebted to the clerk of the Southerner for late St. Louis papers and for a copy of the manifest and memorandum.

A new and fine steamboat called the Aunt Letty arrived last evening from Pittsburg. She is commanded by Capt. Baldwin, and was built for the St. Louis and Illinois river trade. The length of her hull is 185 feet, which is too large for the canal locks. Capts. Vansickle and Varble, falls pilots, took her over the falls without touching. She was drawing 3 feet 4 iuches. She leaves Portland for St. Louis this morning.

The R. S. Cobb arrived at Nashville on Monday from Bunksville, bound for Paducah with 260 hhds. of tobacco.

The Republic took in at Evansville two flat boat loads of tobacco from Green river.

Two RAILROAD ACCIDENTS .. -- An Irishman named Barry was run over by the up freight train on the Frankfort and Lexington Railroad on Tuesday evening and had one of his legs cut off above the knee. He was engaged in cutting weeds on the track, and, feeling sick, he had laid down on the track and had probably fallen asleep. It is supposed that he was in the act of crawling off the track when the wheel caught his leg. His leg will have to be amputated. The train was stopped and he was taken to Lexing-

A similar accident happened on the Covington d Lexington Railroad Sesterday. A negro, who was cutting weeds, had laid down on the track, and the passenger train ran over one of his ancles, cutting it off. The accident occurred about two miles from Cynthiana.

EXTENSIVE FIRE .- At St. Louis, on Monday, three large four-story warehouses on the Levee, between Walnut and Elm, were totally destroyed by fire. One was occupied by Dr. Atwood as a drug store; one by Lynn & Sullivan as a produce and commission store, and the other was used as a storage house for gunny bags.

Most of the property in the three buildings destroyed is a total loss.

From the country we hear the most unfavorable accounts. The corn, which up to that time presented the most gratifying prospect, is now lying almost flat on the ground, and cannot, especially if the season should continue wet, produce anything like the yield that was anticipated. The hemp has also been greatly damaged, having been tangled and twisted in such a manner as will undoubtedly render it difficut to cut, and probably lessen it in value and quan-One gentleman told us that his hemp looktity. ATTEMPT AT HIGHWAY ROBBERY-One Robber Killed and Two Others Wounded.—On Sunday night, about 8½ o'clock, a bold attempt was made by three Germans to rob a Swiss watchpeddler named Joseph Taylor, whom they had decoyed from New York to Hunter's Point, Queens county, near the Flushing railroad de-pot, which resulted in one of the robbers being killed and the other two wounded. It appears that the Germans induced the peddler to go with that the Germans induced the peddler to go with them, representing that they knew where he could dispose of his watches; in crossing a se-cluded place, they attacked him; while they were upon him, he drew a knife and managed to stab them all—one of them fatally; the other two then ran off. One of them was afterwards arrested and lodged in the station-house. He gave his name as Wm. Green, that of the man killed as Thayber Dyer, and that of the other who escaped as Charles Myers.

DREAM-LAND. In ancient story was a fabled land Where Somnus reigned—around his palace gray Nocturnal plants breathed odors from dark leaves To darker air. Within the castle walls, Walls tapestried, in solemn silence sat The slumberous king robed with the twilight dim. Process were his messengers; at his weind spell For good or ill they wing'd their way to men. Sweet dreams of peace and happiness passed through A clear, transparent gate, pure as the scenes They pictured to some sleeping eye ere morn; But dreams of wild unrest and visions false Thro' ivory portal seeming fair and bright, But false as the delusions they would breather

Not thus my dream-land. Shadows rest not there: Silvered with moonlight, tis an island gem
Set in etherial ocean far above
The clouds of earth; yet with its beauty strange Far, far below the bowers of heaven-a spot Where ministering angels, in their flight
To earth, soorn not to rest their shining wings.
In that elysian isle no palaces
Are reared in splendor, but a vernal grove
Of ever-blooming trees; o'erarching them Hope waves a rainbow-wand and paints the scene In beauteous colors meet for royal throne, Till far away the rainbow portal melts To gentle moonlight ever dwelling there. Sweet buds perfume the air, not sad with tears Wrung from the brow of night—so exquisite They wake some half-forgotten many. They wake some half-forgotten memory Resting like breath of flowers upon the heart. There is a crystal lake whose wavelets have The pearly lips of rose-lined shells wherein The pearly lips of rose-lined shells wherein Is ringing some low-murmured word of love. Over the lake's calm bosom memories Of joyful scenes float by; past hours of bliss, Like fairy barges, ripple the bright wave As plensure-laden they glide on; and oft Upon the lake's cool, wooded margin, list! To catch the distant tones of some dear voice Long loved, long silent, hushed by death's cold seal. But all in vain we list to hear again. But all in vain we list to hear again
One tone that has so long been hushed in death.
The very life-blood at our hearts starts back
As if a hand of ice had stayed its flow,
And eyes that shone with joy now yield a tear. A tear! No, tears would disenchant us now And break the spell; fancies all pure and bright, Dearest remembrances and radiant hopes, Shall be in our bright dream-land; let us blend Our thoughts till, like sweet nymphs, hand linked in hand, They merrily shall dance thro' our bright isle. We'll join in one glad strain our spirit-songs In all the cestasy of Poet's dream Unmeasured as it gushes from our hearts, And sing like carolling of summer birds Because the notes are trembling on our lips. This is no dream-land; sure in blissful hours "Love's angels envy this bright heaven of ours."

DR. BEALE VS. THE STATE OF PENNSYLVANIA. The Judgment of the Court of Oyer and Terminer Removed-Opinion by Chief Justice Lewis.

The opinion in the case of Dr. Beale, vs. the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, which was argued some months since, was delivered by Chief Justice Lewis, at Bedford, Penn., during the deliberations of the court at that place last

The following is an abstract of opinion, by which it will be seen the judgment of the court of oyer and terminer is reversed.

1st. That in a criminal case the supreme court has no power to review the decisions of the court below in admitting or rejecting evidence, or in giving instructions to the jury. Nor can we correct the errors of the jury in rendering a verdict contrary to, or without evidence. In such a case we may, as citizens, perform the common duties of humanity, by presenting our view to the Governor, who alone can grant relief. But as judges of the supreme court we have no more power to relieve the prisoner than "any other five citizens of the State."

2d. That the entry on the record that the jury was duly sworn, to try the guilt or innocence of the prisoner;" when fairly construed, means that they were sworn in the form prescribed by law. They could not be "duly" sworn in any other form 2d. The sentence to imprisonment generally without directing that it shall be "separate or solitary," is erroneous. It is also erroneous to The act of Assembly does not require it, and the court has no right to impose a severity not authorized by law.

The judgment is reversed, and the record remitted to the court of over and terminer, with directions to sentence the prisoner according to which did some damage to the crops, especially law, as directed in the opinion of the supreme

FIREMEN'S RIOT .- The city was disgraced on Saturday night and the public peace flagrant ly violated by a riot between the adherents of several fire companies in the western part of the city. It seems that, by previous concert, the New Market and United companies were to attack the Mount Vernon Hook and Ladder Company, to gratify some feeling of animosity between them which has for some time past re-quired the utmost vigilance on the part of the Police to prevent breaking out in riot. The New Market company, it is said, gave a false alarm, to which the Mount Vernon responded; and that they came into collision on Franklin street, between Eutaw and Howard, when pernaps fifty pistol shots were discharged and brick bats thrown in every direction, apparently with out any regard to consequences.

The contest lasted but a short time, but, brief as it was, it is amazing that there was not a greater destruction of human life. The number of the wounded is not accurately known. A young man by the name of Charles Ellis, a member of the United Company, received, it is supposed, a mortal shot accidentally, as the pis-tol was fired by a member of the same company. A young man by the name of Kemp also received, it is supposed, a fatal shot. It is stated that he was only a looker-on, not a participant in the riot. It is supposed that there were some twenty persons wounded seriously whose names are not known. The rioting was not confined to the western section of the city, nor names are not known. The rioting was confined to the western section of the city, nor to the two companies named. At the corner of Baltimore and High streets there was a sharp encounter between the Vigilant and Lafayette companies, but they were separated by the prompt intervention of the police before any serious consequences resulted to either party. Another attempt at riot was made by the lastmentioned companies at 3 o'clock on Sunday morning, but it was also prevented. Several arrests have been made, and a further examination is to be had into this disgraceful affair.

We are indebted to a commercial friend ! for the following table. It will be seen that the number of hogs this year is less than last. This is ascribable to the shortness of the corn crop last year. Many hogs, for want of food, were starved, and many killed were not more than half fattened. The crop of the coming season, though shorter in number, will no doubt be much larger than that of last season:

CHOLERA IN FLEMINGSBURG.—We regret to learn that the Cholera has again made its appearance in Plemingsburg. Dr. R. A. Lightfoot, of this city went to Flemingsburg on yesterday to lend his professional assistance to that afflicted community. We learn by a letter from him, that Dr. E. O. Bell, an excellent physician and worthy citizen, died last night about 7 o'clock. Mr. McDonald was very low this morning when the omnibus left, and Dr. L. thinks he will die unless there is shortly a change for the better. There were no new cases this morning.

Maysville Eagle, Aug. 21. A Land Question Settled .- An applicant for bounty land recently claimed on account of the service of a former husband, having been divorced from a subsequent one. Yesterday the Secretary of the Interior confirmed the decision

HAVE WE GOT A CITY PUMPMAKER?-The citizens on Main street in the vicinity of Fifth and Sixth streets are suffering. All the pumps are out of order.

Three boys were arrested yesterday on charges of stealing money.

THE FEVER AT NORFOLK .- Ministers deserting their Flocks-The Flight of Christians, &c. The Norfolk Argus of Saturday thus alludes to the flight of the citizens of that place:

So general and precipitate a flight as that which has recently taken place here, we never expected to witness. The thought of disease and sudden death, the knowledge of an existing pestilence, we know are appalling to sinful man, and an instinctive love of health aud life naturally hurries him away beyond the limits of the destroying agent to a purer atmosphere and a healthier clime. The strong man in his prime dreads the presence of an air that poisons the life-blood and kills in a day, and even the sincere christian feels solemn when he reflects up-on so sad a visitation from the great Being in whom he trusts and whom he loves. But should christians fly, too, from the danger, at the very time when their presence is most required?—when their words of advice, instruction, and camfort are so necessary?—when nursing and watching are so much needed? "I was sick, and ye visited me not."

Surely if there eve. was a time when the true disciples of Christ should be active and in their line of duty in Norfolk, this is the time; for ve-rily, "the presence walketh in darkness and the destruction wasteth at noonday." Our friends, neighbors, and acquaintances are prostrated by disease—burning with fever and tortured with pains; and how important the soothing words of a christian at such a time! But among the most panic struck, the most alarmed, the most eager to hasten away, there were hundreds of professors; and many indeed who are wont, in days of healthfulness, in times of happiness, peace, and prosperity, to make the loudest profession, to assume the most grave and religious aspect, and to be most ready and forward to give words of reproof for delinquency, and apparently unchristian conduct. Do not some show, now, that they have a beam in their eye? There is a deep meaning in this conduct.

Of the four or five members of the clergy who have hurried off, it may not become us to speak now. They know their duty. Perhaps this is not the time to indulge in vituperation; for although the disease is not as bad as reported, God's chastening hand is upon us. Our stores are nearly all closed; our streets are deserted; the dead and the dying are around us; except the rattle of the physician's coach, hearses, and rattle of the physician's coach, hearses, and hospital wagons, the silence in our streets is often absolutely oppressive. The frantic wail of the widow falls dolefully on the ear; the piteous cry of the orphan rings out shrilly and dies away upon the night wind; friends are parting, perchance till the judgment; and the lamentation of the mother is heard, like "Rachel, weeping for her children, and refusing to be comforted because they are not." It is indeed a sad and gloomy time in our loved and devoted a sad and gloomy time in our loved and devoted city; and how much the calamitous visitation is increased in its intensity, by the inconsiderate flight and absence of religious friends, and the deprivation of their consolatory instructions and prayers in the room where death claims and seizes his victims, we leave to the imagination of the panic-stricken Christian professors, who have sought a more salubrious climate and a less dangerous location. We heard one of our ministers say, who has not proved recreant to the high and holy duties of his office, and who goes willingly to the abodes of woe and death, that he found a woman whose husband had just died of the fever. She, too, was attacked, and no one was there to nurse and comfort her. He looked out and the neighbors had all gone—their doors and windows were closed. "Here," said she, "I must lie and die alone." And there was a boy with the black vomit, and no one but a young sister to attend him during the slow and sad hours of a long night of pain and sorrow.

But some noble souls and great hearts are left, and their recompense will be great. They shrink not from their duty. They breathe still the deadly breath of the pestilence; they pray for the sick and the duing and whise account of the sick and the duing and whise account of the sick and the duing and whise account of the sick and the duing and whise account of the sick and the duing and whise account of the sick and the duing and whise account of the sick and the duing and whise account of the sick and the duing and whise account of the sick and the duing and whise account of the sick and the duing and whise account of the sick and the duing and whise account of the sick and the duing and whise account of the sick and the duing and whise account of the sick and the duing and whise account of the sick and the duing and whise account of the sick and the dying, and whisper sweet words of faith and consolation in the ears of the sufferers, whose thanks and prayers and blessings will be remembered in time and in eternity; and if the faithful soldier of the Cross falls while doing his duty when most needed he feels riously and his reward will be unspeakable and

The Norfolk Daily Transcript has resumed its publication. From its issue of Friday we learn:

Notwithstanding the decrease in our population, probably not more than 1,500 or 2,000 whites remaining in town, the fever continues with little if any abatement. About an equal number of new cases occur daily, and the deaths average from seven to ten. Dr. Maupin, whose practice is extensive, informs us that the sickness seems to be changing, and the fever, he thinks, is more of an intermittent character and less fatal than it has been. The panic in the community has subsided to a considerable extent, and the few now left seem disposed to remain and abide the consequences; indeed it is a matter of necessity. There appears to be no al-ternative, as we are almost wholly cut off from all communication and association with sister towns and cities are closed against us, the hearts of many are open to our distresses. eral contributions have been forwarded for the relief of the poor and suffering in our midst, and our hearts are filled with gratitude to those who forgot us not in the time of our trials.

THURSDAY EVENING, AUG. 23, 1855.

COMMERCE IS KING .- The Louisiana Republican has an article under this ostentatious heading, in which a position is assumed for commerce to which it is not properly entitled. We would not be understood to derogate from the importance of commerce, or the dignity of the merchants who conduct it, but we cannot refrain from an expression of the opinion that to elevate commerce to the kingly position is virtually to exalt the agent above the principal, and to place the creature over the creator. The real king, if in fact there is any such thing, is PRODUCTION. Without production society could not exist; it could exist without commerce. It is certainly true that the existence of agriculture. manufactures, and commerce is essential to a perfect developement of human association and a full supply of human wants. No nation can rise to the first rank in wealth, power, and refined civilization that does not possess each of these great agencies of man's progress. But it is absurd to place the element, that is naturally last in the scale, at the head. Commerce is defined to be a mutual exchange of commodities. Now it follows from this definition that the things to be exchanged must be produced before they can be exchanged; and therefore commerce must be subordinate to production. The editor of the Republican says:

England, although monarchical in its forms of government, admits it; for, truly, since edu-cation has made such rapid progress through civilized Europe, as well as this continent, the influence of commerce, in all its bearings, cannot be disguised. The intelligent merchant has taken the position of the feudal baron of olden -wealth is not the essential property to uphold him; but honor and integrity are the bulworks of his nobility. The present state of affairs on the Western continent is evidence of the position herein assumed; for, without the aid of the commercial community the efforts of the Allies, with all their known courage, would prove futile. We to Commerce is King. We therefore again repeat that

We think that our New Orleans cotemporary would have been more accurate in his statement had he said that the Southern planter "had taken the position of the feudal baron of olden times." As to honor and integrity, they are qualities as important and as prevalent, in the classes of agriculturists and manufacturers, as they are among merchants.

The fact is that no class is king; they are all useful, none can be dispensed with, and each deserves to be represented in the political organizations of the country in the ratio of its consequence in the scale of social arrangements. In speaking of the failure of the mercantile interest to be properly represented in the Legisla. tive halls, the N. O. editor says: "We remember the period in this city when merchants were looked upon with respect; and, in accordance with their age and experience, with reverence. But since the political blast and blight produced by the veto of 1832, and its subsequent effects, matters and things generally have changed; and instead of commerce being king, a new aristocracy has sprung up, and now the lawyers, so far as our midst is concerned, have become the true nobility of the land. And why should this state of things exist? Have we no merchants in our midst possessing sufficient mind and intellect to assume a position in our Legislative halls or in the Federal Congress, to represent the people of this portion of the Union?"

Now this may be all true, and doubtless is rue, but where does the fault lie? Is it not the merchants themselves who are to blame? They have not only in New Orleans, but almost everywhere else, surrendered the field of politics to lawyers and interlopers. Intent upon making money, they are content to let others rule the State. If then the mercantile interest suffers following month from ignorant legislation, the merchants are not free from blame. In a mercantile community, able, practical merchants of established reputation would be placed in official stations if they would indicate a desire for official station; but this they rarely or never do, more especially in the Southern Sates. But this is not the case in New England. Some of the ablest, most useful, and effective representatives in Congress from the States of Massachusetts and New York have been merchants and manufacturers. The North as a general rule send practical working men to the legislative halls, while the South is rather celebrated for sending thither talking men, fellows who can discourse three hours on a stretch upon the merest idle abstraction The consequence of this course is, that in all matters of public appropriations for great and useful works, the North manages to secure the money, while the South seems to be content with having got the best of the argument. We cannot consent to recognize commerce as king, or even as approaching to that elevated position, until it shall show that it is not only able, but willing to rule; it must step forward into the political arena and do battle for its rights; it must vindicate its claims to distinction by showing to the world that it is conscious of its own importance, and capable of impressing a conviction of consequence upon others. We know of no commercial community that needs a practical working representation in Congress more than New Or-

At Middleborough-on-Tees (England), there exists a singular freak of nature, "a boy with a real tail;" he is about four months old and in good health. He has a perfect caudal appendage four or five inches in length. It springs from the vertebræ of the os sacrum, not the os cocygis, as does the tail of an animal, which is coccygis, as does the tail of an animal, which is a continuation of the spinal structure. It has caused much interest among the faculty, who have had a consultation whether it would be proper to take it off, but, as upon examination it is found to possess the properties of a limb, having bone, muscle, feeling, &c., and can be moved at the will of the child, it is feared the operation might endanger the child's life by affecting the spinal cord. It may prove of great inconvenience to the possessor in after life, as it will intrude upon the seat of honor.

The Kingswood Tunnel, on the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad, is 4,100 feet in length, cut through slate rock, the excavation being 28 feet in width, to accommodate two tracks. The side-walls are of solid masonry, laid in cement, and extend ten feet above the tracks. About 3,000 feet of the tunnel will require arching. For more than 2,000 feet the side walls are now completed and are being rapidly extended for the remaining 1,000 feet. The arch is to be composed of brick for the greater portion, and of iron for some 1,300 feet. The iron arching is already nearly completed, about 1,000 feet having been placed in the weakest and most troublesome parts of the work. The greater portion of the weak section of the tunnel which had been interrupting the business of the road during the month of July is embraced in this, and is now permanently secured. The iron castings which form the arch are in two pieces, each three feet wide, and strengthened by broad latitudinal ribs. Each piece weighs one ton, making some 900 tons of iron in the 1,300 feet. This forms a very substantial as well as a novel

The Mexican correspondent of the New York Tribune gives some interesting particulars of the Texan connection with the revolution on the frontier.

The rich planters in the neighborhood of San Antonia, he says, sent an agent to Vidaurri with a proposition that if he will make a treaty guaranteeing the surrender of all fugitive slaves on the Mexican side, they in turn will reciprocate the act by returning all the Peons who escaped to Texas, and also to place 1,000 men at the disposal of Vidaurri, equipped and officered in the same manner as the regular troops of the United States, and bear all expenses until such troops shall arrive at any place Vidaurri may name.

The Texans have already raised $200,000 for this purpose, and their agent has already had an interview with Vidaurri at Saltillo.

The same writer states that Caravajal had a disagreement with Vidaurri, and retired in disgust. The latter was about to march on the interiar as far as San Louis Potosi.

NATIONAL DEBTS .- The aggregate amount of European debt is stated to be £1,644,841,000. of which the debt of England is £773,923,000, France £233,000,000, Holland £102,451,000, Prussia £3,500,000, Russia £68,000,000, Spain £70,000,000, Belgium £26,000,000, Austria £211,000,000. The various countries of Central and South America, Mexico, and Cuba have an aggregate debt of £59,788,280. The debt of the United States is put down at £10,-000,000, and that of British India at £48,000,-000-making the total public or national debt of the world to be £1,762,629,480.

WILL SEBASTOPOL BE TAKEN? -The Invalide Russe, the Russian official organ, publishes a remarkable article, four columns long, under the heading: Will Sebastopol be Taken? Though free from braggadocio, it concludes with ex-pressing the conviction that the fortress is impregnable, though it confesses that the allies would have inevitably taken it had they assaulted it from the position they now occupy, on the morrow or the day they arrived there. It says that Sebastopol can replace one hundred dismounted guns in a night, or can exchange 50,000 fatigued troops against 50,000 fresh troops; that the allies with double the force they can dispose or, cut off the communication by Perekop: the Russian army, fighting for its country and its sovereign, is anir ated by a better spirit than is the heterogeneous mass of French, English, Turks. Egyptians, and Sardinians, contending for an abstract idea and for a confused interpretation of the duties of civilization; that four days after the tremendous bombardment of the 28th of March, Sebastopol was stronger than before; that at this moment the daily allied losses are greater and those of the garrison less than ever before. It goes on to show the tremendous preparations for the reception of the enemy, if it succeed in obtaining a momentary foothold.

The Paris Constitutionnel affects to consider this article as a desperate effort to reassure the peo-ple of St. Petersburg, and offers as a reply to the question, will Sebastopol be taken? the senti ment that it will.

A Scene not in the Bills .- Conspicuous among the audience at the Baltimore museum, not long since, was a country levelorn swain and his in Whenever the dialogue on the stage turned upon love or marriage, the verdant Adonis bestowed a series of the mos' energetic hugs upon his equally affectionate deary, which attracted not only universal attention but impe-ded the progress of the corps dramatique, who at times were unable to continue their roles, from the laughter excited by the loving couple's manoeuvers. Wholly engrossed with the tender passion, the turtles discovered not that general attention was attracted toward them, and commenced a kissing scene During the progress of this very agreeable and pleasant, but rather too public pastime, a wag seated beside the bride that was to be attached to her back a placard that was to be attached to her back a pla-card that was on his seat, labelled in large char acters, "taken." The explosion of laughter that ensued was universal, upon which the af-fectionate pair darted down stairs amid the al-most deafening cheers of the audience.

BACK-HANDED BLARNEY .- An Irishman, one Barney Brady, was brought up for a combina-tion of the national Hibernian characteristics -getting drunk and fighting—which he carried to the "admired extreme." Having drunk his skin full of whisky, he became amiably pugnacious and wanted to whip any body or anything that would step out "just for the fun of the fracas." He had picked a loving quarrel with the keeper of a porter-house, had kindly knocked down two apple-women and a news-boy, in a commendable spirit of pleasantness had kicked in a basement window in the hope of inducing the owner to come out and have a "scrimmage," and at the time of his arrest was throwing bricks against the door of Engine No. 97 hoping that some of its Milesian members would sympathise with a gentleman in his pursuit of a quarrel under difficulties, and would come out and take a friendly knock-down just out of pure national love and good-fellowship. Policeman 1,001 soon settled him with a few blows of his club, and Barney was brought into Court with his head cut open in several places and his nose knocked sideways as if it had been run over by a meat-cart. He was well acquainted with the Judge, having been indebted al-ready to his Honor for a gratuitous trip up the river, and, although he probably anticipated pretty correctly the result of his examination, he could not resist attempting to "blarney" the Justice, probably from sheer force of habit; however, to the tail of every one of his "soothering" speeches he tagged on m an undertone a qualifying phrase or direct reversion of that part of his conversation intended for the ear of the Judge, so that while the spoken part of every answer contained one meaning, it would be materially qualified by the addition of the whispered after-part.

Judge-Why, Barney, have you come again?

Prisoner-Yes, your Honor; this gentleman wid the star on brought me here to see your Honor's noble countenance once more; niver saw a pair of worse lookin' thieves in all

Judge—Have you been drunk again?
Prisoner—Slightly elevated, your Honor; not half so drunk as the man that wears your boots gets ivery day of his dirty life.

-Don't you think you'd better let the whisky alone, Barney?
Prisoner—Perhaps I had, sir. You old squint eyed blackguard, ye know ye git bline drunk and rowl on the floor among the spaniel pups every dinner ye ate.

Judge—The law says I must fine you ten dol-

Prisoner-Yer noble self that knows so much about the law can't find it in yer heart, I know, to be hard on an unletthered divil like Barny Brady; an' that same Barny Brady knows the law, an' oulder law, an' civiler law, an' betther law, an' more of it than could be hammered into that thick ould sconce of yours wid a piledriver; ye can't tell Blackstone from a broomstick. don't know yer little finger from a speakin'

Grand.

The unique and beautiful style of this instrument and its perfect fitness for the parler are commendations that will not apply to the ordinary Grand Piano. For, while it combines the tone, power, action, and appearance of a Full Grand, it has the done, power, action, and appearance of a Full Grand, it has the delicate touch of Chickering's Square Pianos, acknowledged by every one superior to any other, and, though of seven octave compass, is still smaller in size than the semi-Grand Piano of 6% octaves, as it occupies but little more space than a 7 octave Square Piano.

The peculiar and compact construction of the Parlor Grand, an invention of the late lamented Jonas Chickering, is a sure guarantee of its durability. And the complete success of this new and truly beautiful instrument fully sustains the reputation of its inventor and manufacturers.

We have already sold several of these instruments in the city, and, to meet the increased demand for them, have arranged for a constant supply.

To these superb Piano-Fortes we invite the attention of the public. Those in want of a Grand Piano should examine the Parlor Grand before purchasing. They are made only by Chickering & Sons, and can be had only of ourselves in this city, als jibb Jacob's Block, Fourth st., near Main.

A meeting was held to-day of the various A meeting was held to-day or the various committees representing the Republicans, Know Nothings, Know Somethings, and Freesoilers, to concoct a plan of action, owing to a disagreement of most of the members recently appoint ed. The Chapman Hall committee seceded. The others resigned, and are determined upon calling a State convention of the citizens opposed to the extension of slavery. The signers to the call already include many of our most influential citizens. The seceders, it is supposed, will call a meeting of the citizens. It is certain that a strong Republican organization will be

PITTSBURG, Aug. 22. The Democratic convention assembled here to-day. All but three districts were represented. Col. Samuel Black chairman. Strong Anti-Know-No hing resolutions were passed; also declaring the nationality of the Democratic party; approving the administration of Pierce, and endorsing the nomination of Plummer for Land Commissioner. A resolution in favor of fusion was defeated by 79 to 8. The following ticket was nominated:

Hon. Wm. Wilkins State Senate, Samuel Smith, R. N. Bausman, James B. Fulton, L. B. Patterson, and Christopher Magee for the House of Representatives, R. Patterson sheriff, John Birmingham prothonetary.

PORT CLINTON, Pa., Aug. 23. A special excursion train for Niagara with over four hundred excursionists and Cornelius & Baker's excarsion party arrived here at 25 minutes past 9 this morning, and stopped for break-fast. It has created a great sensation in all the towns along the road. The population are turn-ing out to listen to the music of the bands and witness the unusual sight. The party are all well and in excellent spirits.

ST. Louis, Aug. 23. A mass meeting of Freesoilers was held at Lawrence, Kansas, on the 14th. Over 600 persons were present. Gen. Schuyler presided, assisted by the usual number of vice presidents and other officers. Strong resolutions were passed denouncing the election of the 13th of March as a great outrage, denying the legality of the Legislature now sitting with pretoceions. of the Legislature now sitting with pretension to enact laws—regarding its action without authority and pledge themselves to resist its authority, recommending the election of Delegates to conventions to form a State convention with a view to an immediate State organization and application to the next Congress for admission into the Union as a State. Resolutions of thanks to Gov. Reeder were passed unanimously.

Resolved, That agreeably to recommendations, the Territorial Free State Executive committee call a convention of five delegates for each representative appointed in the several districts, on the 25th of Augast, to meet at Big Springs on the 5th of September, for the purpose recommended, and all other action necessary.

Braithwaite's Retrospect for July. Braithwaite's Retrospect for July.

To medical men the great advantage offered by the Retrospect is its embodying in a confined space all the cream of Medical periodicals, sparing them the labor of wading through many velumes filled with much trivial and uninteresting matter, which must be perused in order to reach what is really valuable, and supplying them with a key by the aid of which they may find precisely what they require in any of the scattered publications of the day. To families and private individuals it is scarcely less valuable than to the professional reader, since, although purely and in the highest degree scientific, its contents are ye presented in a style so simple and unaffected that they are comprehensible to any ordinary intellect. AN AUTOBIOGRAPHY.
In one duodecimo volume, neatly bound in cloth. Price $1.

The author of this interesting American novel is among the most intellectual of living writers. It lequired the genius of the author to have grasped, with such extraordinary force, the scenes and circumstances through which her story moves. No other writer could have through which her story moves. No other writer could have thrown as strong an individual life into place and locality. Her passionate fearless which no one can enter without yielding to the irresistible fascination of her powers. The book is a thrilling transcript of undoubted experience. The châracters introduced into her work are flesh and blood realities. These graphic life revelations have created a profound literary sensation not equaled by any other production since the appearance of the "Scarlet Letter" and "Jane Eyre" and are "more talked about than any other novel of our times.

The following was telegraphed from London to our Liverpool agent just as the steamer left:

London, Salurday, 11 A. M.—The Invalide de Russe, of August 2d, publishes the Rusian general's report of the events before Kars to the 11th ult., not so late by three days as the letters. to Lapadegge, and two days earlier than the attempted attack on the town.

Gen. Mourinoff pretends to be besieging the town, but he appears to be looking about the city picking up odd oxen and horses, while waiting to learn something of advantage. Kars is not invested.

The Journal of St. Petersburg says that on July 18th a gunboat carrying the British flag appeared before Otchakoff and threw a number of shells into the Russian batteries.

Otchakoff commands, together with Kithbaum, the straits by which the Denieper communicates with the Black Sea, and must be passed on the way to Nichaloff and Kherson. The boat re-ferred to was probably taking soundings.

The Official Russian contains an account of a third bombardment of Genitchi, on the 18th, by three gurboats and two screw steamers. The stores of straw near the shore were set on fire and some horses burnt up. Prince Lavanoff, who was in command, withdrew his troops in good order to avoid loss; and thus, says the Jour nal de St. Petersburg, Genitchi was exposed al-most defenseless to a third bombardment.

The allies, after destroying with impunity farmers' and fishermen's huts on the shore, drew near the city vacated by the troops and abandoned by the inhabitants and directed their artillery at the temple of God, built in the place, and upon which they concentrated their fire. Toward 9 o'clock a shell, which was thrown upon the church, burst off the roof and caused for from which the buffers also accused. a fire from which the belfrey alone escaped. On July 20th the two steamers and two gun-boats, keeping Genitchi in sight, put to sea.

The Patre says that private despatches have been received that the allies have operated with success against Revel. No despatch, however, has been received confirming this.

The Austrian Gazette states that advices have been received from Bucharest to the 18th, that the Aga or common police magistrate of that city has been dismissed in consequence of com-plaints on the part of foreigners there, especially the Russian Consul General.

Poland.—The Czar (?) of Cracow states that preparations for the new levy in Poland are carried on with great activity. The standard of height is lowered and it is very difficult to obtain exemption. This is the fifth levy in that country within the last two years.

The Lavalide de Russe of August 1st publish.

The Invalide de Russe, of August 1st, publishes Prince Gortchakoff's report of military operations from the 22nd to the 28th of July. The Prince affirms that the whole of his artillery often silences the enemies batteries and drive their men from the trenches.

The Journal de Frankfort says that the Aus trian Government has remonstrated with the King of Naples, and blames him for the consequences which may issue from the errors of his

The stock of molasses is also light, and holders an-ticipate a further advance.

The same paper says of provisions:

The market is bare of provisions and prices are irregular. One thing is now well established, namely, the stock of provisions in all the leading markets will be entirely exhausted long before the new comes in, and it is now inevitable that hogs will open at high rates, say $5 75@$6 per cwt., and perhaps higher.

The St. Louis Intelligencer reports sales of 2000 bbls mess pork, to be delivered at any time before the lat of next March, at $14; also, 1000 bbls on the same conditions at $14 50.

The New York Journal of Commerce, of Monday evening, gives the following report of the money market: There is a very quiet feeling in the street to day, and money although abundantly offered finds a dull market; there is a less amount of first-class paper offering than was anticipated, at the fall trade is being developed, and even with the best securities will not command over 506 per cent, we quote trange at 507 per cent. for loans on call and for business parer.

The stock board opened dull, and owing to the small attendance there was but little animation and less buoyancy; after the close there was a little better feeling, and higher prices offered.

Foreign exchange is more active for bankers' bills on London 60 days at 109 1/10.

Hughes& Breckinridge's Oral Discussion THE ORAL DISCUSSION between the Most Rev. Arch-bishop Hughes and the Rev. John Breckinridge, D. D., on the question "Is the Roman Catholic Religion, in any or in all its Principles or Doctrines, opposed to Civil or Religious Liberty?" and of the question "Is the Presbyterian Religion, in any or in all its Principles or Doctrines, opposed to Civil or Religious Liberty?" has just been received. The frequent calls which we have had for this work (which has been out of print for several years) have induced us to make such arrangements with the owner of the convigint recasonate races.

This is a very useful book for politicians, as it discusses masterly manner all the points of the Catholic dostri

New Book by Mrs. Caroline H. Laing.
THE OLD FARM HOUSE.

THE OLD FARM HOUSE.

THE of the authoress of the above work speaks volumes in its favor, and in this she has produced the crowning effort of her pen. For freshness and vigor of thought and style and for originality—in the charming views of country life at the "Old Farm Hause"—in the striking illustrations of the follies of a fashionable city life—in her description of good and evil natures—in all the various subjects which she has touched with her magic pen, she cannot be excelled. The gentle heroine, Amy, is a model of patience and virtue, persecuted by the evil sentus of h.r life, the villain 'Stanuton.

The book will be read with avidity, and none who commence it will desire to lay it aside till finished. We offer with full confidence that its perusal will be attended with pleasure and profit to all readers. Price $1.25.
